

Storytime!

(Lev and Lumi Gray, Part 4
with Elisha J. and Sara V.)

Lumi finishes the story...

Pigeons fluttered around my head... a huge glowing rectangle started following me... a 10-foot pizza almost knocked me down...

“Aaaah!” I screamed... then realized that I was dreaming the whole time. “I’m so tired of this place! I miss home.”

But how do we get back? The sun poked over the horizon as I rolled over to find Lev still sleeping. Since he normally sleeps until noon, that gave me six hours to find an answer and return.

But where to look? Maybe I could find an answer at the library. “I’m a genius!” I struggled to my feet and started walking through the park. But three hours later, when my stomach was empty, my feet were exhausted, and I still couldn’t find the library, I thought, “I’m a goner.” Better yet, I lost Lev, too.

I needed help. I slowly approached a woman stretching on her lawn. She was wearing weird white knob things in her ears; what a weird earring. “H-hello?” She pulled one of the knobs from her ear.

“Hello, dear can I help you?” the woman smiled.

“Do you know where the library is?” I asked politely. She frowned. “I mean, I just use my phone. But maybe you can try walking down the busy street around the corner.” She pointed, and I smiled back. But I was a little confused; I thought we talk on phones.

Finally, after another half hour... A LIBRARY!!! I ran as fast as possible, then caught my breath and straightened my hair and quietly walked in.

Trying to avoid suspicious glares from people with masks, I sneaked down the nearest aisle. One familiar-looking book beckoned me, and I picked it up.

Suddenly I saw Lev walking in and I started tearing up. “Lev im so sorry! I just wanted to go back home and I- I-”

We took the book outside, and waited eagerly for the blue light. There it was! BOOM! We made it home!

Note to self: don’t travel in time. It’s weird in the future.

FCS SCHOOL LIFE

Spring Concert

On May 25th, the school held our annual Spring Concert at a new location, the First Baptist Church in Flushing. A musical based on Pilgrim's Progress, the concert showed a performance from every grade.

Special contributions included singing, instruments, and an unforgettable dramatization. Overall, this event allowed every student to glorify God with their talents. You can watch the video online.

Spirit Week

We celebrated Spirit Week on May 30-June 2. Each day, students dress according to a theme. For instance, there were Team Tuesdays, Wacky Wednesday, and Theme Thursdays. Friday is the best day because we celebrate field day at Kissena Park.

We also held a Jog-A-Thon campaign to support our tuition assistance fund, making a Christian education available for everyone.

$40,607 raised
Goal: $30,000

Praise God for helping us raise a record amount! Amen!

PERSONAL SPOTLIGHTS

Mrs. Peña, Office and Elementary P.E.

Mrs. Peña enjoys being a part of the FCS family because she laughs a lot with her co-workers. Outside of school, she is a children's pastor, a church administrator, and does event planning. So, it's just like being at FCS, just with different work. If she could choose any class to teach, she would teach Canva and cricket.

Canva is an online art app that allows individuals to create posters, presentations, and more. Cricket is also an online app that is used for graphic designs. She would choose to teach these classes because they're fun and creative. If Mrs. Peña could pick one place to reside, it would be in Hawaii because she is originally from there.

Malachi Martínez, 7th Grade

Malachi is in the electives band, and chorus. He chose these electives because he says "chorus is easy" as well as he enjoys playing guitar with his favorite instrument being drums. He likes being in FCS because he appreciates the Christian school environment. His favorite subject is Social Studies because he enjoys learning about the civil war, as well as he thinks it's an easy class, but his worst subject is Spanish and Math. Before FCS he was homeschooled, which he liked because it was really fun and he only had about 2 hours of school.

One fun fact about Malachi is that he plays basketball. He likes it because it's a fun sport, and it could teach you skills in life such as teamwork.

ACADEMICS: FOURTH GRADE MATH

Fourth grade is currently learning about decimals greater than one.

Mrs. Boodram is writing on the board to show the kids how to do this work. The students seem to enjoy math and are very diligent in their work.

They are very excited about this new math and are eager to learn. This class shows themselves to be very bright and smart.

- Kaleb Baball

ACADEMICS: MIDDLE SCHOOL ELA

The 7th grade class has finished the year with a research paper based on a person from history (church history, world history, US history, etc). Mrs. Emerson expects each paper to survey the person's life and analyze the person's positive and negative impact on others. She also wants us to improve our writing skills and grow as writers through these research papers.

For a successful research paper project we must start by sorting our sources and information on note cards, create a good outline, check our writing, and put a good completion on it. To finish a research paper project on time, we must follow the due dates given by the teacher and make sure we turn in the work when required. Some strategies are to work together with your team, set some new ideas for your project, and talk to your teammates about some comments on it.

Some people we chose to write about are Princess Diana, Helen Keller, Deokhye Ounju, and Malcolm X.
